MP SLAMS HOSPITAL WATCHDOG FINDINGS

Trust praised after inspection - but 'serious incidents were brushed under the carpet' claims Rosie Cooper

Report by Danielle Thompson

HEALTH watchdog inspectors who turned up unannounced at Southport Hospital following concerns over medical care at the site flagged up by West Lancashire MP, Rosie Cooper, found there had been 'significant improvement' since their last visit.

However, their findings were criticised by the MP who claims Southport and Ormskirk Hospital Trust and the inspectors - the CQC - have 'brushed under the carpet' serious incidents which took place at the hospital.

The Trust says it is 'really pleased' by the report's findings but neighbouring West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper told the Champion she is 'far from convinced' after flagging up concerns brought to her by a whistleblower which 'should make them deeply ashamed'.

Ms Cooper contacted the CQC (Care Quality Commission) after the whistleblower told her that an elderly man had been discharged with 'only a blanket' wrapped around his lower half, as well as issues with 'Do Not Resuscitate' orders.

The MP said: "I am pleased that the CQC and Southport and Ormskirk Hospitals NHS Trust believe there have been improvements to the Trust's services, but I am far from convinced."

"The unannounced inspection took place after I contacted the CQC to draw their attention to an incredibly serious incident that I had been made aware of by a whistleblower. This incident involved an elderly man being discharged from the hospital by North West Ambulance Service with only a blanket wrapped around his bottom half. It occurred because both the Trust and NWAS failed to follow their own processes."

"They should be deeply ashamed of this, and I had hoped that the CQC would bring this to light and properly hold them accountable. Instead, both CQC and the Trust seem to be brushing it under the carpet, burying this incident with only the slightest of references to it in the report. How can the Trust be held accountable if the regulator won't even acknowledge serious failings like this?"

"I am also far from assured that Do Not Resuscitate orders are properly consulted on with patients and families not just placed on a patient record without following the proper process. Family members have told me they knew nothing about the DNR that was placed on their loved ones' record.

"Across the NHS as a whole, I believe the police should be involved where the strict guidelines are breached. The public needs confidence in the medical staff treating them."

"The Trust may be improving but it needs to improve more quickly than it is."

The CQC has published its report following a 'focused' inspection of medical care services at the Trust, looking at the safety of patient care and the wider management of risk across the service.

Inspectors visited five wards at Southport and Formby District General Hospital in March, in response to patient care concerns.

The five medical wards visited were the medical emergency assessment unit, general medical/gastroenterology ward (11b), cardiology including coronary care ward (7a), respiratory ward (14b) and the short stay ward (9a).

Due to the specific focus of the inspection, the overall rating for the service and of Southport and Formby District General Hospital did not change and remains as Requires Improvement. The trust's overall rating also remains as Requires Improvement.

However, the Trust's chief executive Trish Armstrong-Child said: "I am really pleased inspectors found significant improvements since their last inspection across all the areas they reviewed. Continued inside

PCC Andrew Snowden has begun his term of office where he was joined by Chief Constable Chris Rowley

Police Commissioner begins term of office by setting out 'key priorities' to tackle crime

Report by Tom Martin

THE newly elected Police and Crime Commissioner for Lancashire has begun his term in office and set out his key priorities for the county.

Andrew Snowden said he wants to be "the voice of the public for policing in Lancashire".

He said: "I am honoured to have been elected as Police and Crime Commissioner and I want to thank Lancashire residents for putting their trust in me to take on this important role.

"I've met the Chief Constable to set out my priorities for Lancashire and to start working together to tackle crime."

"My message to the law-abiding citizens of Lancashire, to the local communities and to our police force, is simple: I am on your side, I will be your voice and I will work tirelessly alongside the Chief Constable and the Constabulary to reduce crime and to make sure that Lancashire is a safe place to live."

"I will ensure that the numbers of police staff and officers will increase and I am determined to ensure that, together with our partners, we will take steps to tackle the issues that trouble our local communities such as anti-social behaviour."

"It is vital that we work together in addressing the underlying causes of crime through prevention, to stop it from happening in the first place and to avoid innocent people becoming victims."

Relief for hospitality venues as customers indoors but health experts urge caution

Report by Tom Martin

THERE was relief for hospitality venues in West Lancashire this week as they were finally allowed to welcome customers indoors after months of lockdown and restrictions.

Nearly all businesses from across the borough are now up and running following months of closure and uncertainty brought on by the pandemic.

People can now eat and drink inside pubs, cafes and restaurants, with galleries, theatres, sports stadiums, cinemas and soft play centres also allowed to open their doors once again.

People will also be able to meet inside and stay overnight in groups of six, or two households. Up to 30 people can also mix outside.

Other rule changes include a lifting on some foreign travel and people are now permitted to hug each other as government guidance eases on close contact between people.

Despite these new freedoms, locals are still being reminded to stay cautious to avoid the risk of spreading the virus.

The rule changes come as the variant first identified in India continues to spread in the UK, with mass testing rolled out to hotspots including Sefton, Bolton in Greater Manchester and parts of London.

This is a really positive step, but it must be tempered with caution; the pandemic is not over and we still need to follow the guidance to keep the most vulnerable in our communities safe and infections at their current low level.

Councillor Ian Moran, leader of West Lancashire Borough Council, said: "I'm delighted that our local businesses can open up to customers indoors after such a long wait."

"They have been under immeasurable pressure but I hope their future is now more certain and I urge people to support them by not only bringing their custom but by respecting the guidelines and getting tested before they visit."

"I would personally like to thank everyone in the borough who has acted responsibly and followed the guidance; you have helped bring infections down to one of the lowest rates in the county, so let's keep leading by example and make sure we get to step four in June."

Lancashire Police are reminding residents that officers will continue to take a "common sense and proportionate approach" to policing as lockdown measures continue to ease.

As rules are relaxed police are urging people to continue following both the rules and associated guidance as part of the government's roadmap to coming out of lockdown.

Animal lovers urged to support summer raffle for local RSPCA

PEOPLE are being urged to support a charity summer raffle, which has been launched to raise money for the RSPCA Southport, Ormskirk & District Branch.

The proud owner of her own rescue cat, Poppadum, she has worked hard to put together a superb list of raffle prizes and is encouraging people to buy tickets.

Cecilia said: "I have put my heart and soul over the past four months into collecting over 100 amazing valuable raffle prizes with a lot of support from local businesses.

"We had a very successful Christmas 2020 Raffle, raising an incredible £2,247.00 for our Animal Centre.

"I believe the coverage which was published on Stand Up For Southport and through Southport BID helped us to reach this figure."

People can buy raffle tickets by phoning Southport RSPCA on 01704 567624. Raffle tickets cost just £1 each. The draw will take place at the RSPCA centre.

There's a wide range of prizes, which includes a 32" Smart TV and four Ball Vouchers at Hurlston Hall Golf Club.

The RSPCA Southport, Ormskirk & District Branch near Southport is completely reliant upon donations, legacies and monies raised through its RSPCA Charity Shop on Eastbank Street in Southport town centre, together with the public's generous support of its locally-run fundraising events.

Its Animal Centre, located in New Cut Lane, on the Birkdale-Halsall border, covers Southport, Ormskirk and the surrounding areas as far south as Maghull.

The centre takes in, cares for, supports and helps rehabilitate needy animals whilst new homes are found for them.

The raffle will support animals in need.

MP critical of hospital inspection findings

"They also noted staff spoke positively about the culture in the hospital and the support and visibility of the leadership teams on the medical wards.

"These improvements are the result of hard work, compassion and commitment from our dedicated nurses, doctors, all other health professionals, and our non-clinical support teams.

"We are committed to providing the best care possible to all our patients and will continue to build on these improvements to make sure we consistently deliver safe, high quality care for local people."

A spokesperson for the Trust added: "We are pleased that inspectors recognised the Trust leadership team had identified areas for improvement which were already being addressed."

Some examples of ongoing improvements include:

- Since December 2020, teams across the Southport and Ormskirk health and social care system have been working together to support patients who are ready to leave hospital but not ready to return home. This partnership has allowed patients to receive the care they need and frees up hospital beds for very unwell patients admitted to our hospitals through A&E.

- Establishing a wellbeing call service which is run by trained volunteers to help prevent re-admissions to our hospitals. 391 calls were made in the first month since the service was launched at the end of March 2021. Patient feedback from these calls is confidentially shared with wards and our pharmacy staff to improve services. Patients can be referred to other services for support as appropriate, for example social services and voluntary support services.

● Colleagues from Queenscourt Hospice in Southport have been working with our staff to improve the care we provide and to support them to take a more individual approach to every patient and the care they receive. This builds on the team's work with Oasis ward during the first wave of coronavirus pandemic, where we established a ward for patients needing specialist care.

"Services were inspected but not rated and our overall Trust rating will be reviewed at our next full inspection."

Improvements

Karen Knapton, CQC's head of hospital inspection said: "I am pleased to report that since the previous inspection in August 2019, we saw a number of improvements had been made on all the wards we visited.

"Concerns that had been raised to our inspectors had also previously been identified by the Trust and were being addressed by the leadership team.

"Staff were positive about the culture, support and visibility of their leadership team.

"Due to the nature of this visit and the time we had to carry out the inspection, we were unable to re-rate the service, however we will return to ensure that further improvements are made and fully embedded."

In relation to the patient discharged with just a blanket around his bottom half, Ian Stringer, Head of the North West Ambulance Patient Transport Service, responded, "Patient dignity is of the utmost importance to us, and immediately after the incident occurred, we began work with the hospital to help them instigate a safer discharge process."

"That partnership is ongoing to ensure we're collectively doing the best for patients in our care."

A spokesperson for the Trust, responding to Ms Cooper's comments, said: "We are extremely sorry that this incident happened which was dealt with directly at the time."

"The findings of our investigation and learning were shared with CQC inspectors prior to their visit. We are pleased that the CQC looked in detail at discharge arrangements in their latest inspection and gave a balanced view."

No response was offered in relation to Ms Coopers' DNR claims.

Children so delighted to receive 'thank you' letter from their hero Sir David Attenborough!

YOUNGSTERS from a primary school in Skelmersdale who decided to send a birthday card to their hero Sir David Attenborough were delighted when he wrote back!

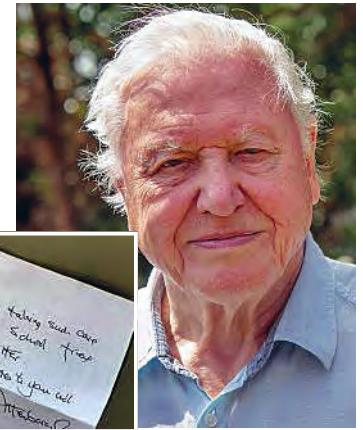

The legendary broadcaster turned 95 earlier this month, so children at Little Dignoor Primary School sent him a special card to mark the occasion.

The pupils spent a long time creating the hand-made birthday card, which included pictures and information on how they are keeping their school free of litter.

They were then surprised and delighted when Sir David sent back a handwritten response, thanking them for their kindness!

In his letter, he said: "Thank you very much for sending me your birthday good wishes.

"It is a really lovely collection of pictures. I am so glad you are taking such care to keep your school free of horrible litter."

The children received this thank you letter from Sir David Attenborough

Teacher Caitlin Hamer told the Champion how the children admire Sir David Attenborough and how his letter made their day!

She said: "The children were so happy, and so was I! He is such a big influence on the young children for all of the right reasons."

Paige humbled by award

Paige told the Champion: "I am extremely humbled and grateful to receive such an honourable award and I really want to thank all my colleagues who voted for me.

"I didn't expect to even come close after all of the hard work and dedication shown by all nursing staff across the hospital over the past year facing the pandemic, they have all been amazing.

"As a nurse caring for patients comes first and this was why I pursued a career in nursing.

"To be awarded 'Registered Nurse of the Year 2021' was an amazing achievement at the age of 24 and it's something I never, ever expected."

Care home visitor restrictions relaxed

Lockdown rules eased but it's still essential to follow robust safety guidelines

Report by Danielle Thompson

CARE home residents across Lancashire can now be visited by up to five named people, as part of lockdown rules easing.

The restrictions on visitor numbers are being relaxed as part of the next steps in the National Coronavirus Roadmap.

The change applies to care homes or any other care settings.

There is a daily limit of two visitors for each resident.

However, this does not apply to young children or to anyone who is classed as an 'Essential Care Giver' under the government's scheme.

The number of days that visits must be stopped following outbreaks has also changed. Visits will be paused for 14 days rather than 28 days.

These changes follow other relaxations that were brought in earlier this month, setting out that residents can now go outside to places such as parks, gardens, other day centres or education services without having to self-isolate on their return.

People still have to follow robust safety guidelines to prevent the spread of the virus, such as wearing PPE, having a negative Covid-19 test result and booking visits beforehand.

County Councillor Graham Gooch, acting cabinet member for adult services said: "This is very welcome news for residents in care homes across Lancashire and their families."

"This pandemic has been extremely hard for them as friends and family typically have been unable to see each other for such a long time."

Care home residents will be able to see their loved ones – in person, not through glass

"The fact that more people can now visit will mean so much as people have the chance to catch-up, share memories and hold hands with friends and family for the first time in months."

"We still have to be mindful of the need to prevent the spread of the virus."

"People must follow guidelines such as wearing PPE, booking their visit with their care provider beforehand and ensuring they have tested negative for Covid-19 before their visit."

"However, this is another important step towards normality for so many people across our county."

More information about visiting can be found at www.lancashire.gov.uk/coronavirus/our-services/adult-care-services/

Craft market is back and aims to support local businesses

Report by Tom Martin

AN artisan and craft market that aims to support local businesses is back up and running in Burscough with the hope of "bringing the community together."

The event is held on Crabtree Lane, near the Slipway Pub, on the last Sunday of every month by organiser Ailsa Goldsworthy.

The local entrepreneur, who has set-up her own soap and bath bomb business called Soap Delight, has brought together local traders who sell various items and offer activities from market stalls.

The market first opened in August last year but was forced to close due to lockdown rules.

Some of the traders include Nick Goldsworthy: Landscape Artist, Terrier Treats, Arts & Crafts by Roberta Mendonca, Old Soul Bakery, Sharps Melts, The Cheese Wheel and Anahatta Gifts & Designs.

Ailsa said: "I set up the market as a way to help support small independent businesses in my local area."

"As a small business myself, I understand how hard life has been for little businesses who have had no or little support throughout the pandemic.

"The market is also a way to reach out to our community and brings everyone together, so people have hope and a small piece of 'normality'.

"The market is family and dog friendly and is a perfect morning or afternoon out."

Last year, the market managed to raise £50 for a local foodbank and Ailsa wants to continue with the fundraising this year.

She said: "This year I am focusing on raising money to help one of our regular traders S&R Birds, who are a local wildlife sanctuary that rescue birds of prey.

Ailsa Goldsworthy

"They haven't had any grants or support during the pandemic and because of this are struggling to stay open."

"S&R Birds are a great part of the artisan and craft market as not only do they attract families to the market but are educational and the work itself is important to our Lancashire community and surrounding nature."

Plans put forward to convert former care home into hotel and restaurant

A FORMER care home in Maghull could be turned into a hotel and restaurant under plans put to Sefton Council.

The Mikhail Group which runs the Bold Hotel in Southport want to renovate Harrison House and convert it into a 16-room hotel with a restaurant and bar/lounge which could also be used for function hire.

The building was owned by the Parkhaven Trust but has become disused since it more modern facilities north of the site.

The application states that the building is no longer viable for modern day care standards, and that an alternate use would be beneficial to the building as well as the local area.

The existing gatehouse will also be renovated and there will be a 100 space car park created under the plans.

County council backs fostering campaign to find more loving homes

Report by Tom Martin

LANCASHIRE County Council is supporting Foster Care Fortnight and recruiting new carers.

Foster Care Fortnight is the UK's biggest foster care awareness raising campaign, delivered by fostering charity The Fostering Network. The campaign started on Monday, May 10 and will run until Sunday, May 23.

Kelly Pritchard, who has been a foster carer with the county council for nearly two years, has filmed a video for the Fostering Network, to support the #WhyWeCare national fostering campaign.

Kelly wanted to offer her home to a child or young person, and this has not only transformed the life of the young person that she now cares for, but her own as well, as she is now permanently matched with them.

Kelly said: "The thing I really like about fostering long-term is that I have been given the opportunity to make this young person a part of my family. I can give that family kind of love, stability and safety to them, and that's making a real difference to their life."

In the video, Kelly explains the importance of fostering, and how it transforms lives.

The support that has been given to foster carers during the pandemic is an important theme of Foster Care Fortnight.

This has been reinforced by Edwina Grant OBE, Lancashire County Council's Executive Director Education and Children's Services.

Edwina said: "I was pleased to be able to film a video and to provide a blog, to showcase the commitment, passion and dedication of varied

Lancashire County Council has backed the national campaign people who can actually change the future for children and young people by their actions.

"Our foster carers here in Lancashire are incredible. They have demonstrated this every day during the pandemic with the vital support that they have been giving to our children and young people.

"We are committed to supporting our foster carers every step of the way, and in order to do this we have recently introduced some new initiatives so that we can provide even more support and guidance for new foster carers, to help them carry out their vital role.

"We were all in unchartered territory, and our amazing foster carers certainly rose to the challenge, so we need to do all we can do help them to care for our children and young people."

TV star shares experience of mental health as part of special Edge Hill event

Roman Kemp lost his best friend to suicide last year

Report by Tom Martin

EDGE Hill University hosted a special online event about mental health which included television and radio star Roman Kemp.

The 28-year-old joined a line-up of mental health experts for an open and honest conversation about mental health, including Andy Smith, a Professor of Sport and Physical Activity at Edge Hill.

Roman gave a candid first-hand account of his mental health journey and reflected on the devastating loss of his radio producer best friend Joe Lyons to suicide in August last year, an experience which inspired him to pursue his emotional BBC documentary Our Silent Emergency.

He said: "I lost my best friend, my brother, my colleague and the happiest person I knew to suicide and it's the most horrible thing that I've ever been through in my life."

"The realisation that you will never see your friend ever again and that you never understood the hurt that they had in their life is far worse than having a conversation with your friend and annoying them by repeatedly asking whether or not they are OK."

"I set out to make the documentary to show that suicide isn't something that is a problem for men having a 'midlife crisis', unfortunately it's getting younger and younger. I wanted to figure out for myself what happened to my friend."

Roman also shared his own experiences of mental health.

He continued: "Since the age of 15 years old when I was diagnosed with clinical depression, there's been moments where I've been at the lowest possible point. I have the most privileged life you can imagine, I have nothing seemingly wrong with my life, but I still got to a point where my life was not worth living. I felt like I should not be here anymore, and I felt like I wanted everything to stop.

Big difference

"Everyone has this idea that celebrities don't suffer and if the influential people we see on Instagram are talking about big subjects such as this, it can make a big difference. Anyone with that type of platform, I'd implore them to do the same."

Also part of the online event was Andy Smith, a Professor of Sport and Physical Activity at Edge Hill.

Prof Smith has been at the forefront of ground-breaking research in sport, education and mental health including the award-winning mental health programme Tackling the Blues delivered in partnership between Edge Hill University, Everton in the Community and Tate Liverpool to promote young people's mental health in education through sports, physical activity and the arts.

He said: "Over half of all symptoms of mental illness, excluding dementia, are first experienced by the age of 14. So, it's really important that we begin to tackle mental health and mental illness among children and young people in schools, in our communities, universities and colleges.

"At a simple level, mental health is everyone's responsibility and if we take that responsibility seriously it will benefit not only ourselves but everyone and hopefully we will find ourselves in a much better position than we do now."

Other panellists included Olivia Izzo, an Edge Hill student mentor on the Tackling the Blues programme who is encouraging children and young people to open up through the arts and sport; and sports people who have battled with their own mental health.

Locals urged to join Woodlands Lottery

WOODLANDS Animal Sanctuary is urging locals to sign up for their Woodlands Lottery.

A spokesperson for the charity on Sandy Lane said: "Just like the National Lottery you can enter as many times as you would like and obviously the more you enter the higher your chance is of winning."

"Simply by entering you are directly supporting the lifesaving work the animal rescue does. So far this year, they have already admitted nearly 300 animals, which is a lot of lives changed for the better and your entry money directly contributes to the continuation of this work."

Men-Aces manager to take on 12-mile Tough Mudder course despite using wheelchair!

Report by Henry James

THE manager of Skelmersdale Men-Aces disability football club is putting himself through a Tough Mudder challenge later this year to raise money for the team and the North West Blood Bikes.

Carl Eaton will experience the 12-mile course, which is served up with mud.

He said: "As most will know I am in a wheelchair through Spina Bifida and I am also a right leg amputee, so this is without a doubt going to be an incredibly difficult challenge."

"I will be really out of my comfort zone with this challenge, as well as out of my wheelchair! as I approach each obstacle and I will have to remove my prosthetic leg to get myself over and under the obstacles in my way."

Carl will be motivated to complete the challenge by a local youngster, who has a rare condition called Cockayne Syndrome type 2.

Carl explained: "I've decided to support an adorable little 5-year-old girl from Upholland called Lily Mae, who has a very rare condition called Cockayne Syndrome (CS) type 2.

"Sadly this means that life expectancy is around seven years of age. Only 2 to 3 people per million worldwide will be affected by CS.

"I seriously wonder whether this enormous task is within my own capabilities and the chronic pain I experience on a daily basis is a real concern.

"My missus Miriam Eaton will be doing it with me, and my son Carl Eaton will be coming home from Belfast to help to try and get me around the course.

"I'll also be enlisting the help of a couple of the Skem Men-Aces to get this unique frame over these enormous obstacles. Dates and venue will be released soon.

"Any support through donations, sponsorship or any assistance at all would be greatly accepted, as I am sure you will agree this is going to be one hell of a challenge for me.

"Please, your support means everything, not only to me but to everyone connected with the Menaces and more importantly little Lily.

"I fully accept that we have all faced difficult times but if you could spare a quid or two I would be forever grateful."

MP slams City Region over lack of Covid support for taxi drivers from W Lancs

Report by Tom Martin

A DECISION by Liverpool City Region's to exclude its licensed taxi drivers who live in West Lancashire from its Covid support grants has been slammed as 'disgraceful' by MP Rosie Cooper.

Local authorities across the country have put in place schemes to support their licensed drivers with support grants due to the impact Covid has had on their income.

West Lancashire Borough Council implemented a comprehensive scheme which offered support to all drivers licensed within WLBC, whether they are resident within the immediate area or not, recognising their contribution to this area.

However, drivers who reside in West Lancs but licensed in Sefton for example, have been excluded by the Liverpool City Region from receiving similar support as their residency is outside of their boundary.

West Lancashire MP Rosie Cooper said: "We have a situation where the taxi licensing authorities across the Liverpool City Region are content to take licensing fees from drivers for their plates, benefit from their continued operation providing transport for key workers across the City Region, then abandon them when they seek the basic support their other colleagues are receiving.

Taxi drivers who live in West Lancashire won't benefit from the Covid support scheme operated by the Liverpool City Region.

"Even West Lancashire Borough Council produced a system which supported all of their licensed drivers, wherever they live, but Liverpool City Region have pulled a fast one and left constituents of mine without the financial help they deserve.

"It is a disgraceful, insular and protectionist attitude from LCR and so I have written directly to the Metro Mayor Steve Rotheram appealing for him to intervene and ensure the system in place is fair and recognises these drivers and key workers that have kept his city region running through this pandemic."

A spokesperson for the Liverpool City Region Combined Authority said: "Since the pandemic struck, we have delivered the biggest package of business support the region has seen in a generation to help protect local people's lives, jobs and livelihoods.

"This has included over £45m to support those businesses worst affected, a specific fund to help those Excluded from government support and a £3.5m grant to help our region's taxi drivers.

"We have been clear from the outset that, due to the funding we had available, we would not be able to help everybody we wanted to but would help as much as we possibly could.

"Throughout the past 12 months, the Metro Mayor has continually lobbied government on behalf of local businesses and self-employed workers for the proper support they needed – this included pressing for the government to introduce a specific national scheme to support taxi drivers."

Pupils and staff advised to continue wearing face masks in school due to concerns over Indian variant of Covid

PUPILS and teachers in West Lancashire are being advised by health experts to continue wearing masks, despite this rule being relaxed by the government. As of Monday, May 17, schoolchildren and staff in schools and colleges in England no longer have to wear face coverings as part of wide-scale rule changes as the government continues to ease lockdown restrictions.

However, the recommendation from directors of public health across the North West is that masks should be worn until June 21, which is the next milestone in the government's roadmap. The concern has been raised due to the new Indian variant, which is spreading across the UK and has been particularly prevalent in the Formby area of Sefton.

Council will help litter-picking volunteers

IF you are looking to support Keep Britain Tidy's Great British Spring Clean campaign, which runs from May 28 to June 13, then West Lancashire Borough Council want to help.

The council can loan out litter picking sticks and provide bags for litter collection as well as collecting any materials that are picked up.

For them to be able to help, you will need to register with them and this can be done by e-mailing: environmental.enforcementofficers@westlancs.gov.uk.

Sight loss charities stay connected through unique virtual wellbeing challenge

Report by Tom Martin

LANCASHIRE and Sefton charity Galloway's has been leading the way in connecting people who work in the sight loss sector by introducing a wellbeing challenge during lockdown.

Understanding the need to lift spirits and show solidarity during the pandemic, Stuart Clayton, CEO of Galloway's, invited members of other sight loss charities across the UK to take part in Run, Walk, Crawl Virtual Race That's Not a Race.

The six-week challenge involved teams taking on a virtual tour of sight loss organisations across England, Wales and Scotland, with a target of 1,240 miles. The aim of the event was to boost morale and connect fellow colleagues who work in the sector.

Stuart Clayton said: "All our colleagues in the sight loss sector have worked extremely hard under incredibly difficult conditions over the past year, so we wanted to show some solidarity and focus on their wellbeing."

"We came up with this challenge to give everyone an opportunity to focus on something positive and encourage the benefits of physical exercise. It has also been a fantastic way to connect people as it has sparked great conversations between colleagues who work at other sight loss organisations.

"This has been a real team effort and I wish to thank everyone for their enthusiasm in taking part, as well as those who have helped with the admin.

"It will be great to build on this success by maintaining the strong relationships that have arisen from this inaugural event."

With more than 200 participants, the organisations collectively covered 56,982 miles, equating to twice around the world plus 6,000 miles.

Census survey response 'exceeded all expectations'

A TOTAL of 97% of households across England and Wales provided an 'important insight into the community' by completing this year's Census survey.

The response to Census 2021 has exceeded all expectations, with respondents making sure they count when it comes to local services like school places, GP surgeries and hospital beds. This was above the pre-census target of 94%, while all local authorities have seen over 90% of households respond, exceeding an 80% target.

Deputy national statistician Iain Bell, from the Office for National Statistics said: "I'd like to thank everyone who has filled out their form as well as all the community groups, organisations and local authorities who helped us make this census a success."

'Sophisticated' cannabis farm at property in Banks

Report by Henry James

A SOPHISTICATED cannabis farm was found at a property in Banks following a raid by police.

Lancashire Police raided the property on Tuesday, May 11 as part of Operation Hera, and one male from the Banks area was arrested.

Police described the cannabis farm as a "sophisticated set-up" which involved a "dangerous by-passing of the electricity supply to support a large quantity of drug related activity."

They added that the property had been targeted following intelligence from the community.

A spokesperson for Lancashire Police said: "As part of our continuing commitment to the communities of West Lancashire and thanks to community intelligence, a warrant operated under Operation Hera has been executed in the Banks area, resulting in a sophisticated set-up and a dangerous by-passing of the electricity supply to support a large quantity of drug related activity."

"Officers across West Lancashire regularly dismantle, bag and destroy cannabis growths."

"Often behind a cannabis growth is an organised crime gang, who are actively exploiting the vulnerable for their own financial gain, many of these people have been trafficked from other countries with the promise of a better life, or are young children. In addition, growths of this size can make houses unsafe through faulty electrics putting themselves and others in danger."

"So, this simply isn't another cannabis raid, there are lots of implications behind the scenes that are often overlooked by the public and this is why we take warrants of this nature extremely seriously."

"The production and dealing of drugs won't be tolerated in West Lancashire. We will find you and we are coming for you!"

Youngsters preserve lockdown memories inside 'Covid Capsule'

Report by Tom Martin

PUPILS from Ormskirk have been sharing their memories of lockdown by preserving them inside a Covid Capsule!

Children from St Anne's School are getting involved with the COVID-19 Commemoration Project, which has been organised in our region by West Lancashire Borough Council and will be situated at the Beacon Country Park.

There will be a sensory woodland created and developed to represent a place to commemorate people in the community lost to COVID-19 and to give thanks to our NHS and key workers.

A time capsule is a historic cache of goods or information, usually intended as a deliberate method of communication with future people.

Every class has contributed to the project with messages and special artwork.

Some children wrote a record of their top moments and challenges during lockdown, as others interviewed parents and recorded their special memories from the pandemic.

Children decorated handprints with words of encouragement to represent how we can connect with others.

'Wordles' or word art were created, using vocabulary to describe the mixture of feelings they have felt over the past year.

This included words they will associate with Covid – from 'McDonald's delivery' to the 'lack of toilet rolls'!

A tribute in poetry to Prince Phillip

I was recently very moved by the death of Prince Phillip and I composed a short verse in his memory. I hope you may consider this worthy of publication in the Champion.

In Memoriam

In Memoriam reads the sign,
 That sits upon the marble shrine,
 That lays upon the earth so cold,
 Wherein lies one who grew so old.
 He was a Prince from another land,
 Who took a Princess by the hand,
 A fairytale that came to life,
 With all its troubles and its strife.
 The greatest patriarch of all,
 Has left his legend to enthrall.
 In splendour now and for all time,
 In Memoriam, reads the sign.

James Eaton,
 Skelmersdale.

Town being ruined by poor planning

IN the Morrisons store in Ormskirk, on display are a series of photographs of how Ormskirk looked over a 100 years ago - and how appealing it was.

If you ever visit Arras in France, you will see a town built not dissimilarly.

Arras was virtually destroyed in the Second World War and then rebuilt the way it had been afterwards.

We have a town that never, to my knowledge, suffered war damage, but which has been and continues to be systematically destroyed by incompetent and unsympathetic planners aided by a council who seem not to have a clue.

The latest plans for the redevelopment of the old Regal cinema and the twaddle espoused by a council officer plummet the depths of stupidity and ignorance.

What is being totally ignored, and Ormskirk desperately needs, are entertainment facilities that are NOT pubs but maybe a cinema - and a skating rink (how about the previous Iceland building) - and youth clubs for the teenagers, of a type that I and my generation used when we were that age.

The former Regal cinema on Church Street is being redeveloped.

At a stroke these could alleviate the frustrations that our youth feel.

Why do the planners ignore their needs which are crying out for attention - urgently!

Martin Pagett,
 Ormskirk

'Fossil fool' motorist writer must have downer on electric cars

David Simister, in his 'Life on Cars' urged us not to write in to complain that he has an unreasonable downer on electric cars.

Unfortunately David then went on to make a fool of himself by stating that he couldn't possibly buy a second hand Nissan Leaf as its estimated range of 45 miles wouldn't allow him to get from Southport to IKEA at Warrington to stock up on meatballs.

He said that he would run out of battery power 'somewhere on the M57 on the return trip'.

What David seems to have overlooked, through either lack of knowledge or for deliberate mischief making, is that IKEA has rapid 50kw electric car chargers in the car park and by the time he had been in and picked up his meatballs and had a browse or a coffee his car would be fully charged (around half an hour) and he would get home without problem.

He also fails to factor in other rapid chargers within a mile of IKEA or those on his route either via the M6 or Ormskirk, St Helens etc.

They are everywhere now.

If David doesn't want people to think he's a fossil fuel champion with a downer on electric cars maybe he should write a proper article with factual information to help people choose to drive electric or not.

That would require some research and knowledge of the facts though.

Martin Woods,
 Southport

Meatballs could have done better!

Re: Life on Cars (Champion, May 12).

You may wish to point out to writer, David Simister, that he would not 'conk out' on the M57 somewhere on the way home from IKEA, because he can charge his car while eating his meatballs, giving him enough charge to comfortably get home.

It's truly embarrassing that he contrives such a specific 'set up to fail' scenario of picking a very short range, last-generation vehicle and then taking a ridiculously pessimistic estimate of the remaining range... and still manages to be wrong simply through not undertaking the most elementary of research to discover that IKEA Warrington has several charging points, neatly hitting on the fact that even a very old, short range EV is still sufficient for his real world use-case.

There are many arguments to be made against electric vehicles at a societal level, and the question of how folk in two-up-two-down houses so common near Warrington will be able to charge is valid, but this is a rather pathetic attempt at edginess rather than an honest attempt at discourse.

I rather suspect the meatballs could have done a better job of researching that particular piece.

 Southport

Fears that war-time 'Starfish sites' could be lost to vandalism

Historic structures in neighbouring borough 'need to be maintained'

By Danielle Thompson

A Starfish site covered in graffiti in Formby

FEARS have been raised that historic 'Starfish sites' in neighbouring borough Sefton, which were first built during World War Two, could be lost forever.

Starfish sites were large-scale night-time decoys created during the Blitz to simulate burning British cities.

The aim was to divert German night bombers from their intended targets so they would drop bombs over the countryside, saving cities from further harm.

Local photographer Patrick Trollope has flagged up fears that the Formby structures are 'slowly decaying' and they are 'being destroyed by vandals and the weather.'

He said: 'A part of Formby's hidden history is in plain sight and could be lost forever. Starfish sites were first created in December 1940 but it wasn't until the bombardment of Liverpool, over seven nights from May 1 to May 8 1941, known as the 'May Blitz,' when this site would really come into play.'

'Dummy sites were a key tactic to preserving important transport hubs and cities in Britain during the bombings raids of World War Two.'

'As well as a network of defences to prevent an anticipated German invasion, which was hastily built in 1940 and throughout the War, all over the British Isles, a top-secret plan was underway, called 'Operation Starfish.' Of these hastily built structures, many have been lost, but Formby is very unusual, as it still has remains of some of these buildings.

'This overlooked crumbling, graffiti defaced brick and reinforced concrete building, located at the back of Range High School, was part of Formby's remarkable civilian endeavour aimed at drawing the enemy's fire from Liverpool and the Docks.'

'These extraordinary Second World War sites were designed to look like burning cities and ports in order to divert air raids. It is said that these sites saved thousands of lives and diverted over 730 air raids throughout the war.'

'We must protect the few remaining sites like this before they are lost to time. Sites like this still remain and should be regarded as permanent monuments to the courage and tenacity of the British people during the dark days of 1940, when Britain stood alone against the Nazi Germany military machine. Sadly, these are, at present, slowly decaying structures, being destroyed by vandals and the weather.'

Composer has harder job with BMW than creating a movie soundtrack!

BMW'S latest M-badged offering sounds like a great car – and one that can trace its roots all the way back to Video Killed The Radio Star.

Wondering what a new arrival from Munich's best-known purveyors of performance motoring could possibly have to do with a new wave hit from the late Seventies (which, incidentally, was the first song ever played by MTV)?

Well, it's all to do with one of the band's experts in synthesisers, who's now been lined up to give you goosebumps when you put your foot down.

Even if you've never heard of Hans Zimmer and you aren't old enough to remember The Buggles, you'll probably know his work.

The German composer and record producer is best known for his work on film soundtracks, adding his aural expertise to more than 150 movies. The Lion King. Gladiator. Pirates of the Caribbean. Inception. Dunkirk. Blade Runner 2049. If you've seen any of them at your nearest multiplex, then you'll have heard Hans Zimmer's handiwork first-hand.

But now he's been given a far tougher gig than doing the score for The Dark Knight – convincing car enthusiasts that they'll enjoy an electric model just as much as a petrol one.

BMW knows all too well that the howl of, say, an E46-generation M3's perfectly tuned straight six is one of the key sources behind the car's enjoyment, and that if it isn't careful all of its go-faster offerings could end up sounding like depressed milk floats by 2030. So, it's handed over to Hans to create a synthesised soundtrack for its M-badged

The latest BMW M3 and M4 could be replaced by a new line of all-electric models versions of the i4. That car isn't due to be launched until later this year, so instead I ended up watching a video that Hans and BMW did the other day to show their working.

There's lots of stuff about being clever with synthesisers – although probably not enough to trouble Daft Punk fans – and about how performance BMWs need to sound explosive, but it was only at the very end that you got the briefest snippet of how the i4 M is going to assault your eardrums.

It sounds like.... well, it sounds like a BMW when you put your foot down!

Surely, if I were the BMW Group's creative director for sound (and yes, that job title really does exist), I'd be wanting Hans to come up with something that easily tops his work on Tenet.

If the i4 M's going to be the first performance BMW to have its own score, I'd want it to sound like the best bits of an Aston Martin V12, an Alfa Romeo V6 and a Lotus Twin Cam, depending on what mood you're in and which part of the rev range you're exploring. Or, given that Hans is world class when it comes to synthesisers, something that easily outdoes anything Bronski Beat could manage. Or The Buggles, for that matter.

BMW were never going to be there first with an electric performance car, as Tesla cracked its towel on that deckchair years ago. But it can at least make it sound better than anyone else can.

I presume you'll be able to stream the finished result on iTunes too...

ADVERTISING FEATURE

Study Online or in person this summer with West Lancashire College

Studies have shown that learning has a positive effect on our wellbeing, it can help us develop self-confidence, as well as develop our skills to enable career progression and help us feel a sense of achievement, and online learning is a great way for people to upgrade their skills at any time, but never more so than during these uncertain times.

West Lancashire College are therefore delighted to have recently launched a range of online training courses, designed to help individuals develop new skills or build on existing ones.

Available on a rolling basis, the College's online qualifications are delivered by distance learning and offer nationally recognised Level 1, 2 or 3 NCFE and CACHE qualifications for students aged 19 and over and who live in Lancashire.

The courses are great for evidencing competency to employers, further individual personal and professional development and offer the relevant skills, knowledge and understanding leading to career progression, a career change and improved employment prospects.

The College's online courses offer you the flexibility to carry out training in your own time, whenever and wherever is most convenient for you without the need to attend college. At the start of your course you will be allocated a Personal Tutor who will support you through your qualification and you will be provided with all learning and assessment materials which have been specifically developed to support you in meeting the qualification requirements. Your tutor will also provide you with written feedback on the assessments you submit as well as ongoing support through a remote tutorial.

Inside this wrap you will find courses that will help you develop your skills for many different employment sectors including; Business & Management, Caring for Children & Young People, Cleaning & Infection Control, Digital Skills, English & Maths, Environmental, Health & Care, Retail and Warehousing. And, the great news is, if you enrol before 31 May 2021, all courses will be free* of charge, no matter what your financial circumstances.

The College is also pleased to be able to offer a new range of in person short courses starting this June, so if you prefer face to face teaching this could be the best option for you, please see inside for further details.

Learning is a lifelong affair, so no matter what your age or motivation, whether you want to study for leisure, gain skills and knowledge needed to fulfil a lifelong ambition, secure a promotion or change your career, West Lancashire College online and in person programmes have something to offer you.

Whatever your ambitions, start fulfilling them by taking your first step today! To find out more, see inside or call 01695 52334 / 52300 enquiries@westlancs.ac.uk or go to www.westlancs.ac.uk

*Courses FREE* if enrolled by 31 May 2021 and you are living in Lancashire. If you are aged 19-23 and wish to study a Level 2 qualification, in order to be eligible you must have already achieved a full Level 2 qualification or above previously eg 5 GCSEs Grades A-C, BTEC Level 2 etc For further clarification, please contact Learner Services on 01695 52334.

DW Independent Funeral Directors

We pride ourselves on our attention to detail

The death of a loved one is the most difficult thing many of us have to experience. David Wilkinson Independent Funeral Directors, located in the heart of Tarleton pride themselves on offering a professional, personal service to bereaved families at an incredibly emotional time.

Having recently moved into larger, totally refurbished premises, just 10 doors down the road, they remain very much a part of the local community and their focus remains exactly the same - to provide the highest standards of care and service to their families, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

From your initial call, to the funeral service and beyond, you will always be looked after by David or a member of his team, a team that recognise the importance of treating their families in a sympathetic and understanding nature in times of great distress. As a member of the trade body for independent funeral directors (SAIF) they follow an industry leading code of practice.

David says "We are proud that families rely on us for support and to guide and advise them through very difficult times. As a business, we have grown steadily and I now have my son Joe working alongside me. We will always remain fully independent, offering individuality and my team and I pride ourselves on our attention to detail."

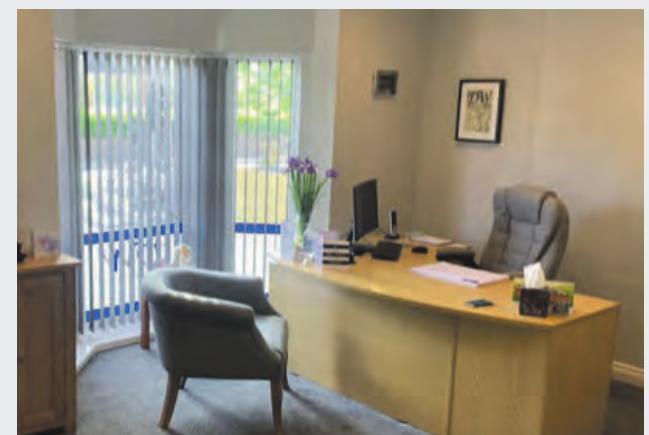

David has many years' experience and he is a familiar face around the village supporting local families in the area. "When moving premises, we felt we couldn't move too far as we are very much a part of the community. Our families don't just call when the worst happens, they'll call in for a brew and a chat and again this is something we are really proud of.

Josephs are renowned for creating bespoke jewellery using their goldsmith Nic, who has over 40 years experience in the art of making hand crafted jewellery. This allows them to create a truly unique and individual piece of jewellery just for you.

This year is their 20th year in business and they wanted to celebrate by launching a bespoke Josephs branded collection, using the combination of skills from their goldsmith Nic and the passion and influence from Sean who is the owner of Josephs. Drawing on Sean's inspiration from nature, the 'ADDITIONS' range was born. 'Cascade' is the first seasonal collection and was launched earlier this year. The exquisite design of this bespoke collection, encapsulates the diamond in a seamless circular setting emulating pools of effervescent water. The second collection has also been inspired by nature and will be launched soon.

Due to Josephs in-house workshop, goldsmith and design capabilities, they are able to create many different jewellery options for their customers. Pet Paraphernalia

PET PARAPHERNALIA

THE AREA'S REAL PET SUPERSTORE

Serving the area's pets for nearly 40 years

From small beginnings going door to door, Pet Paraphernalia has been run by the Moss family for nearly 40 years and is now one of the longest established independent pet stores in the area.

We have a vast array of pet foods and accessories for most animals including dogs, cats, small furries, cage and wild birds and poultry.

In Fishy Business, our 5 Star Council Rated aquarium, we have coldwater and tropical fish, in addition to accessories for fish tanks and ponds as well as an array of reptile products and foods.

We are licenced to sell horse wormers and some prescription diets for dogs and cats and can provide a micro-chipping service for your litters and older dogs and cats.

In store we have operated Treading Water, our canine Hydrotherapy Centre, for over 10 years. All work here is done by veterinary referral, catering for everything from fitness and weight loss to pre and post operative cases and the management of long term conditions, such as arthritis.

Our recently installed cold store now allows us to hold larger quantities of frozen raw foods, which include brands such as Bulmers, Durham Animal Feeds, Benyfit Natural, Cotswold RAW, Natures Menu and Country Hunter.

We offer a delivery service on a Wednesday to our customers in West Lancashire who are unable to come into the store for any reason, but there may be a small charge to some areas.

Our customers who prefer contactless purchases can still place their orders over the phone and have them brought out to them in their vehicle on their arrival.

We are now happy to announce that our sister company, Poochie Couture has relocated to this area. Poochie Couture is a grooming parlour run by two award winning groomers who, between them, have over 40 years experience grooming dogs to their customers' requirements.

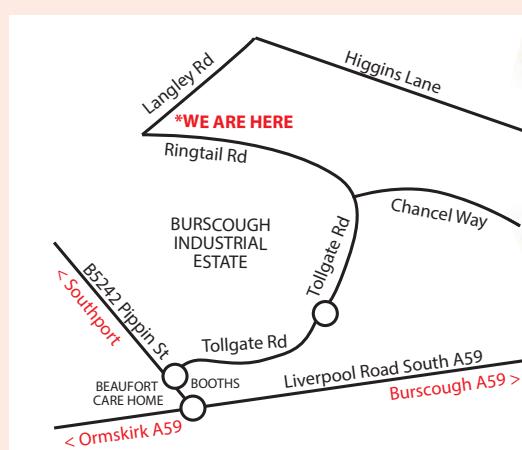

To book an appointment with them just call 07784947653.
